

Getting to La Tzoumaz

Chalet Auriane is less than 2 hours drive from Geneva Airport, and only 20 minutes drive from Sion or Martigny.

Flying

Easyjet, Ryanair, BA, and Swiss Air are just some of the companies offering cheap flights to Geneva.

From the airport

If you rent a car, La Tzoumaz is under 2 hours drive from Geneva Airport. For about £40 return, you can get a train from the airport to Sion and then a local train to Riddes (at the bottom of the mountain) or get the local bus.

Train

You could get the Eurostar from Waterloo direct to Sion, and then a local train to Riddes.

Driving

It's motorway all the way from Calais to Sion but allow for toll charges. The chalet has a double garage, and further room for parking outside if required.

Directions from the airport

If you have hired a car from the Swiss side of Geneva airport, it is easy access onto the motorway and a straightforward drive to the chalet. As you leave the airport, turn left onto the motorway, and follow the green signs for Lausanne (A1, E25, E62). Stay on the motorway, following signs for Simplon (A9). Take junction 24 for Riddes. Follow signs for La Tzoumaz. This is now a mountain road for 15 km. As you enter La Tzoumaz you will see the main lift (telecabine), on your right hand side. Go past this, the chalets are a hundred metres on the right, up a small driveway. It usually takes between 1 ½ and 2 hours drive.
